This is a construction site. Please dress appropriately. Wellies & warm clothes recommended.

Currently under construction, the detached rural home is built from insulated concrete framework (ICF). The ICF has been used for the shell of the building to provide something that has longevity and will last for hundreds of years. The project is being followed by Houseplanninghelp.com and has so far been featured in podcast episodes 74, 100 and 150 with a full video course in the Hub. Roof insulation, waterproofing and windows are still to be installed.
